

Suffolk University's Ford Hall Forum, Women's & Gender Studies Program, the Communication, Journalism, & Media Department, Office of Diversity, Access & Inclusion, Center for Student Diversity & Inclusion, History, Language & Global Cultural Program, Center for Women's Health and Human Rights, Our Bodies Ourselves Today, and GBH Forum Network present:

Gender Politics and Trans Rights and Inclusion: A Conversation with Trailblazing Trans Activist Schuyler Bailar

As seen on The Ellen Show and 60 Minutes

Schuyler Bailar (he/him) was the first openly transgender D1 NCAA athlete. Since graduating from Harvard University in 2019, Schuyler has become an internationally celebrated inspirational speaker, author, and advocate for trans inclusion, radical body acceptance, and mental health awareness. He is also recognized as a top social media LGBTQ+ educator and advocate. In his talk, Schuyler will share his personal journey and discuss some of the recent legislation affecting trans rights. He will also speak about the importance of trans inclusion and strategies for taking action.

Schuyler will participate in a conversation moderated by Bobbi Van Gilder, PhD, assistant professor, Communication, Journalism, & Media Department, Suffolk University, followed by audience Q and A. The audience will have an opportunity to meet and greet Schuyler at the conclusion of the program.
